Car flips

Lawrence Estrade of Shoreline Park was struck from behind by Agnel Moran while turning from Hwy. 603 into the Chevron Station at the Kiln-Waveland Cutoff at 5:15 p.m. Monday, causing Estrade's vehicle to slide and overturn. Mississippi State Highway Trooper Glenn Grice reported Estrade's three passengers were treated and released at Hancock Medical Center. Moran was given a citation for following too closely, while Estrade was cited for failing to use a turning signal, reported Grice. (Echo photo by Thomas "Doc" Toups)

Cities, county cope with storm damages

BY TRACI BONNEY

Wet walls, flooded floors, slaughtered signs and toppled trees were among the reported damages from recent storms in Hancock County.

McDonald's "golden arches" and the Mason's Exxon sign were among the casualties of the morning downpour April 25, as were the traffic lights at Hwys. 603 and 90. The McDonald's arches had to be removed, while the wind removed a large portion of the Exxon sign and twisted the traffic lights.

Flooding from that day's storm was not confined to the county's roads. Some of the estimated 4-6 inches of rain found its way into the lobby of the Waveland Resort Inn, the back wall, ceiling and floor of the Hancock County Human Services Complex, and yards and houses throughout the community.

Mike Reeves, architect for the Human Services Complex, said the Health Department office experienced slight damage to the ceiling tiles and floor along the building's back wall when water overflowed from the gutters into the wall. "Some ceiling tiles will have to be replaced, but the damage was limited," he commented.

Reeves said representatives of contracting firm GM&R were working to solve the gutter overflow problem by lowering the gutters so they are not even with the top of the wall. They may also install more downspouts, he added.

"It's not an insurmountable problem," Reeves stated. "In fact, it's fairly easy to solve." County Civil Defense Director Bobby Boudin said the county sustained minor damage in the April 25 storm, with most of it being in Waveland. "Amazingly, there were no injuries reported," he said.

Boudin reported Tuesday that the county received 15 1/2 inches of rain in April and 70 inches since January 1.

After the April 25 storm and in between other lesser ones experienced during the last week, county workers were cleaning up damaged areas, repairing potholes and washouts.

Meanwhile, utility companies also worked to deal with the damages. Peter Platz of Coast Electric said Tuesday that workers were "watching high water levels, especially in the Pearlington area, to make sure power lines

Citizens seek to stop ASRM tests

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

A letter of intent to sue from the local group, Citizens for a Healthy Environment was sent Friday to the office of Vice Admiral Richard Truly in Washington, D.C. in an effort to stop the proposed 1994 testing of the Advanced Solid Rocket Booster (ASRM) at Stennis Space Center in Hancock County.

New Orleans attorney Dan Snelling explained in a phone interview Wednesday that as required by law, a letter of intent must be given 60 days prior to taking suit action upon any agency by a citizens' group. "It is to give the agency notice and time to take action."

Snelling said, "We are looking for the issue to be decided by a disinterested party such as a judge."

"At best, what will come out of this is public awareness."

Snelling stated that he feels his client, the citizens' group, has sound grounds for reconsideration of the chosen area especially in that "the project is not water dependent."

"There are flaws in the mitigation of wetlands and in the impact studies," he added.

Lydia Schultz, president of the group, said the intent of the law suit "is to stop them because this will damage the environment."

Snelling said he had no idea what the other side would present, but the question of "how open" NASA must be with the public will become an issue.

In the act through which NASA was first formed as a government agency, Snelling elaborated, it is written that NASA must be open with the public. The question for Snelling, is "how open" must NASA be.

Legislative inaction leads to county loss of state inmates

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Hancock County jail will lose several inmates over the next two months.

No jailbreak is planned; neither has there been a sudden rash of inmate deaths. The prisoner loss will be due to transfers of state inmates from county jails to state facilities.

The transfers are a result of lack of legislative action concerning a law that allows state prisoners to be housed in county jails. The House and Senate adjourned earlier this week without acting on a proposed two-year extension of that law.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said the inmate removal will have a minor impact on the jail. "We have been working some of the non-violent state inmates at the county farm and on other jobs, so losing them will have an impact on our labor. On the other hand, we receive only $10 a day per prisoner to house, feed and clothe them. We have contended for a while now that $10 a day is not a sufficient amount, so this will not hurt us financially."

In addition to the 10 state inmates currently housed at the jail, 24 others in custody await trial. Peterson said those who are convicted would also become state inmates.

Statewide, county jails presently house more than 780 state inmates.

Sen. Robert Crook of Ruleville was the leader in the charge to remove state inmates from county jails by July 1. Crook, chairman of the Senate Corrections Committee, said, "We should have gotten them out a long time ago, but there's been no effort by the Department of Corrections to do it. There's been no leadership for it."

Rep. Charlie Capps of Cleveland, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, contended that lack of funds, not lack of leadership, will be the biggest problem in transferring the prisoners. He said the transfer would cost the Department of Corrections $7 million to $8 million the department doesn't have.

Rep. Ed Jackson of Cleveland, House Penitentiary Committee chairman, said he hopes Gov. Ray Mabus forces the legislature to tackle the issue when they return for a special session, possibly in July, to draw new political boundaries for the state's five Congressional districts.

Local MHG dialysis unit construction approved

BY TRACI BONNEY

If all goes according to plan, local dialysis patients will using a new facility in about six months.

The Mississippi State Department of Health awarded Memorial Hospital at Gulfport (MHG) a certificate of need (CON) on April 25 to relocate its dialysis unit, currently housed at Hancock Medical Center, to a facility across the street from the county hospital. According to Pam Doster, director of marketing and public affairs for MHG, construction on the new dialysis unit is scheduled to start in June and end in October.

The present facility has four equipment stations and serves 24 patients during its six-day week. The new facility, which will be located on Drinkwater Road, will have 10 stations and will be open on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays for the first few months of operation. Doster said, "As the number of patients grows, the time the office is open will be extended."

The new office will have other

Local soldiers return from Persian Gulf

BY TRACI BONNEY

For local soldiers recently returned from the Persian Gulf, home is a very friendly place.

As U.S. military personnel set foot on American soil after serving months in Operation Desert Storm to free Kuwait from Iraqi occupation, some of those men and women are coming home to the Coast, even if only for two weeks' leave. Among those heading back to the Magnolia State for some R&R are Specialist Gustavo A. Irias and PFC Tim Williams of Bay St. Louis.

Irias, who left his post in Germany February 13 and returned April 2, is with the 24th Infantry Division, a combat engineering unit. The 22-year-old went to Saudi Arabia as a replacement for a soldier who was transferred out of the war zone.

He received a real military welcome to the Middle East—a Scud missile alert his first night there.

"We were on full alert all the time," Irias commented. "A lot of nights, I slept in my gear."

For Irias' unit, which was only five kilometers from the Kuwait border, the war was a harsh reality. The sounds of bombs exploding became an inescapable part of the soldiers' lives.

Despite the fact that they were in armed combat, Irias said most of the soldiers were "glad the war started, because that was the only way we could come home."

Irias was called to Saudi Arabia two days before he was scheduled to leave Germany for the U.S. His departure left his wife Nicole, also of Bay St. Louis, with a household to pack up and transport back home. The two were wed in Denmark and have been married almost two years.

Now that they are both back in the U.S., they will be moving to Fort Devens, Mass., where Irias has been assigned. He has two years left in his enlistment, and has not decided yet whether or not he will re-enlist.

When asked about his welcome home, Irias said it wasn't big, but "everyone was glad to see him return safely."

His brother Claudio, also stationed in Saudi Arabia, is still in the Middle East.

PFC Tim Williams left Fort Hood, Texas, to go to Saudi Arabia on October 10, his 19th birthday. He returned last week.

He said the war was "something I've never seen before, something I never thought I would see."

He, like Irias, saw firsthand the surrender of Iraqi soldiers to U.S. troops. "There were hun-

This barge was discovered anchored off Bay St. Louis Beach Boulevard Tuesday morning apparently dodging rough seas. While being towed Tuesday afternoon, the barge rammed the railroad bridge and apparently caused no damage according to the Coast Guard. The St. Stanislaus pier, at right, remained unharmed. ST. ANN CHURCH NEWS

A thought for meditation from our pastor, Father Justin Furman, ST.

A man was listening to a sermon which brought out the fact that the very word "Christian" implies that a Christian is one who is like Christ and depends upon Him, because if the word "Christ" is removed from the word "Christian" nothing is left that makes any sense.

So the man began to think of what was left of the word after "Christ" was taken out, and he discovered three letters: I, A and N.

He also discovered that these three letters could not be arranged into any syllable that would have meaning.

After trying to twist these three letters about to make them spell a word, he decided to try and build a sentence out of them. This is what he came up with: "I Am Nothing." Moral of the story: Apart from Christ, we are nothing and can do nothing.

Poses

KILLING TIME

By Traci Bonney

This summer's swimwear is being splashed across the pages of newspaper lifestyles sections even as I write this.

Modeling these high-priced patches of cloth are men and women who can't possibly exist in real life. No female body can be as perfect as those in the photos and ads, and there isn't a man alive (except maybe Mr. Conan/Terminator/Twin/Kindergarten Cop) whose body completely fits the descriptions of those in the pictures, not even the guys who posed for them.

Airbrushes and retouching can do wonders.

But the Fantasy Island physiques are not too difficult to deal with, if you can handle the poses those bodies are made to assume.

Some of the stances female models assume are silly, to say the least. Poses that create visual angles and highlight certain portions of the anatomy are standard for fashion photographers, but have little to do with everyday people who would just as soon not create any more angles than necessary or highlight any more of their anatomy than they absolutely must.

However, as unrealistic as the female model poses are, some of the male models' poses really take the beefcake.

One stance I never have understood is what I call the "Quasimodo look." It seems to be an affliction peculiar to swimsuit models, or any model with a bare chest.

The highlights of this particular pose are a bent leg, usually the left one; one shoulder higher than the other, again it's usually the left; and the head off-center to the right, much like a dancing Egyptian in a hieroglyphic or an owl looking at you quizzically. The background horizon is almost always tilted, too.

I don't see the point of this pose. Is the guy trying to look macho or vulnerable or what? Or does he just have scoliosis?

I don't know—from the look on the guy's face in the particular photo that inspired this column, I'd say he's thinking, "Why do you have me wearing these stupid fossil fish print trunks? Who on earth is going to buy these things?"

Or maybe he's thinking, "Why do I have to stand like this? If the photographer would just adjust his camera angle, I could stand properly and give my overworked muscles a rest."

Of course, he could simply be thinking he'd like to move and get the sun out of his eyes.

Then again, his only thought may be, "Sure, I'll hold this retarded pose for a few minutes. After all, I'm getting paid to do this."

Truck overturns

A truck flipped after hitting a wet spot on the I-10 exit ramp onto Hwy. 607 Thursday, April 25 at 8:45 p.m. According to Mississippi State Highway Patrol Public Relations Officer Danny Tackett, David K. Lizana of Pass Christian was "coming off I-10 when he lost control of his 1978 Ford truck after hitting a wet spot along the off ramp curve. The truck left the road and overturned," Tackett added that no injuries were reported, but Lizana was issued a citation for DUI. (Echo Photo by Thomas "Doc" Toups)

Bay council makes list of zoning study applicants

BY TRACI BONNEY

After narrowing a list of zoning study applicants from 10 to four, the Bay St. Louis city council agreed Thursday in a workshop meeting to set up interviews with the four firms.

The firms — Urbantech Ltd. from Arizona; BFHK Buckhurst Fish Hutton Katz Inc. from New York; Hammer, Siler, George Associates from Maryland; and Landbase Inc. from Texas — submitted fees ranging from about $60,000 to $96,000 for the three-phase comprehensive zoning study.

The three phases in the project are a gaming impact and feasibility study; a design study connected to gaming; and a comprehensive zoning study for the entire city.

Director of Administration Kay Johnson said some of the firms that submitted proposals bid on only one or two phases of the study, while those being considered further either bid on all three phases (and had experience in all three) or bid on the phases where they had experience and found a consultant firm with experience in the others.

She said this system of two or more firms combining their resources and experience will save the city money because it will prevent the city from being forced to hire a separate coordinator to be a liaison between individual firms.

The meetings planned by the city council will include the firms being considered, Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Committee members and members of the Mayor's Advisory Committee on Gaming.

The council hopes to start the meetings the week of May 6.

Meanwhile, Bay Cove Harbour vice president Charles Lambert announced earlier this week that the company is preparing for its first gaming vessel by temporarily closing and relocating its fuel dock.

Lambert said he has the assurance of Jourdan River Marina officials that their facility can supply boaters' fuel needs while the Bay Cove dock is closed.

He said he wants to move the fuel dock to property he owns adjacent to the Cedar Point boat launch, and is considering constructing a bait shop and picnic supply business on the site.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

At 6:30 p.m. tomorrow (Friday), the Exchange Club's second Annual Auction will be held at the Hancock County Civic Center, Longfellow Road.

Proceeds from the auction will be used by the Exchange Club for the club's efforts in child abuse. The Exchange Club sponsors The Family Child Center, a shelter for abuse victims.

There is no admission charge for the auction, and all types of items will be up for auction, such as paintings, meals at local restaurants, original paintings, trips, etc. Jeannie Deen of the Exchange Club reports the auction items are many and of very fine quality.

So don't forget, the auction begins at 6:30 p.m. and will continue for some time Friday night. I hope to see you at the auction.

While on the subject of fund raisers, we do not want to forget the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club's annual dinner fund raiser which is also on Friday.

The event will be held from 4 to 7:30 p.m. at Christ Episcopal's Virginia Hall, Beach Boulevard, Bay St. Louis.

The barbecued chicken dinner, and I understand, Rotary members will be the chefs, will include the trimmings. Dinners are for a donation of $5 each.

Take-outs are available, and I am hoping many will take advantage of this special bargain. This could be a night when the wives and some husbands, since Rotary now has lady members, can get out of the kitchen and help a worthy cause.

Proceeds will be used by the Rotary Club for many of the community projects the club participates in.

I will be there trying that good barbecued chicken. By the way, tickets are available from members of Rotary, The Sea Coast Echo, or can be purchased at the door.

IN CONGRESS

By Rep. Gene Taylor

Taylor reports on results of Middle East trip

I recently returned from a five-day fact finding mission to Iraq, Saudi Arabia and Kuwait in the company of Congressman G. V. "Sonny" Montgomery and 11 other Armed Services Committee members.

The purpose of our trip was to meet with General Norman Schwarzkopf and others and encourage them to bring our Mississippi guardsmen and reservists home as quickly as possible.

I am pleased to report that as a result of our meeting, the 1355th Supply and Services Company of the Mississippi National Guard will return home from service in the Middle East in September, three months sooner than originally expected.

Members of the 786th Transportation Company, a 153-member National Guard unit from Lucedale, are expected to return home in May. And part of the 624th Quartermaster Company, a 144-member national Guard Unit from Waynesboro, will return early this week. The remainder of the group will return this Friday.

Our men and women from Mississippi have performed superbly in the Middle East, but certainly one of the worst parts of their service has been the uncertainty of when they will be returning. Overall, I was really impressed with the security of the region and feel our men and women are being well-cared for. But they are homesick. Their families miss them, and we want to get them home as quickly as possible.

I plan to continue to work to see if we can't get the 1355th home earlier than the scheduled date.

Also, because service in the Middle East has meant such a tremendous financial sacrifice for many of our reserve military personnel, half of the scholarships I will be awarding this year, about $10,000 will be going to the dependents of guardsmen and reservists who have been called to duty in Operation Desert Shield/Desert Storm.

Lastly, I would like to commend General Schwarzkopf on the excellent job he did in the Middle East. We were able to meet with the general and receive a military briefing shortly before his departure to the United States.

I must say my overall impression of the general is that he is everything he is reported to be: tough, patriotic and capable.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Doll raffle saga continues

To the Editor,
Josef P. Overal, I would like to enlighten you and all the other people who were misinformed by your statement that raffle tickets were being sold April 6 on the grounds of the First Baptist Church immediately after the "Righteousness Exalts a Nation" rally.

The beautiful dolls which you imagined as being raffled were handcrafted by a friend of mine who had made them for her two young nieces. Her son had taken them from the family automobile and proudly brought them to show to his mother's friends.

We imperfect human beings often witness an incident and perceive it differently than what it truly is. So Josef, take time to wipe the egg from your face—you are hereby forgiven by one who was admiring the dolls.

Sincerely,
Alma J. Myers

Dockside gambling spells end of Bay's charm, appeal

To the Editor,
My compliments to Mr. Perry Gibson for his outstanding summary of what dockside gambling will mean to this area.

Of the approximately 31,000 people in Hancock County only 4,246 voted in favor of dockside gambling.

This vocal minority of opportunists see dockside gambling as a way to make a "quick buck." By choice, most of these people do not live in Bay St. Louis.

For them, Bay St. Louis is not a quiet, family-oriented, desirable place to live.

Three of the proposed dockside developments will be in the heart of one of the loveliest, historic beach fronts along the entire Gulf Coast. The fourth is in a residential area about to be annexed by the city.

Those of us who own homes in Bay St. Louis, vote in Bay St. Louis, and pay taxes in Bay St. Louis have been told by the proponents of dockside gambling that we do not have the right to protect our investment in the community.

If our residential districts become congested with traffic and our neighborhoods become unsafe, we are told to live with it.

Everything that we perceive as good about Bay St. Louis is about to be destroyed, and we are told to sit back and take it.

Well, I refuse to take it. I refuse to cooperate with any group willing to turn the community that I love and grew up in into a tourist trap.

I applaud Mr. Gibson and stand with him in his views.

Cut the fat in government; spend tax money more cautiously

Dear Editor,
Every time Congress or our State Legislature meet the same thing happens: taxes are raised!

But taxes, fees, service charges, etc., have now reached a stifling point, killing the incentive as Uncle Sam and the state will just take more.

Statistics say the average person must work over five months just to pay taxes. Politicians who say there's no fat to cut have their eyes closed and ears plugged. The federal budget is replete with giveaways and grants to both private corporations and local governments—many ridiculous.

And states are no different! We have too many colleges being funded, colleges forced into remedial education because students were graduated unprepared from high school; community colleges open during summer with some classes babysitting small children; money wasted on road repairs not done right the first time (like Hwy. 90 on the beach, which is still being repaired over and over for the last 10

There are private attorneys being paid up to $600 an hour even though government employs a staff of attorneys under the auspices of Attorney General and District Attorney offices; the list of waste is endless... or don't you consider this waste?

While these and other boondoggles go on year after year, we have millions without health insurance, homeless, and children starving.

It seems our priorities are misplaced, taxes often wasted, and too often our politicians more interested in re-election than the best interests of the people they serve.

Governments need taxes, but not more of them. Rather, they need to find more effective ways to spend tax monies. It is my hope politicians will focus on solving problems, putting government on a business-like budget, cut out all non-essential spending, and stop the ever increasing tax burden and deficits.

Chief Edward Alley of the Pass Christian Police Department Wednesday said a group of Polish gypsies arrested in North Carolina recently were apparently involved in beach front home silver thefts earlier this month. Chief Douglas Williams of the Bay St. Louis Police Department is also investigating the possibility the gypsies might have stolen silver items from a Main Street residence recently.

Debbie Skelton showed the boys how to catch the big one when she landed a 24-pound redfish over the Easter weekend off the American Legion pier in Bay St. Louis. Skelton, a freshman at USM, was fishing with Donald Harvill. She also tangled with a large drum fish after landing the big red.

A raise in tuition and registration fees and a new budget are only the first steps in a program designed to cure the financial ills that have been besieged St. Joseph Academy this year. Mother M. Regis, superior, told the alumnae association at its annual meeting Sunday afternoon. Assuring the alumnae the academy will remain open, she said an appeal had been made to parents to pay tuition fees on time. In annual elections Mrs. John A. Seafide was chosen president; Mrs. Charles E. Carter, first vice-president; Mrs. W.B. Zimmerman, second vice-president; Mrs. A.A. Kergosien, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles B. Dickenson, treasurer; and Miss Ursula Favre, corresponding secretary.

Some time during Tuesday night, or early Wednesday morning, thieves entered the saloon of Frank Martin on North Beach and got away with two slot machines and several cases of liquor. The Martin building, undergoing extensive renovations and addition, was easily accessible and Mr. Martin had prepared for this by having someone stay on the place, and when the porter who had been keeping watch heard the prowlers, he left in search of a police officer, but upon his return found the thieves had already escaped. The slot machines were later found down on the beach entirely stripped of their contents. An extensive search is being made in the hope of apprehending the culprits.

Street Commissioner Leopold Bangard, who, we are glad to note, has been reappointed to succeed himself for another full term, is over on his job. The past week, working under instructions of Mayor Capdepon and the Street Committee, Commissioner Bangard has had a force of workmen grading the newly-made portion of the street from Carroll Avenue to the Echo Bldg., preparatory to treating the surface of same with a covering of shells. When completed the wide roadway will represent and will serve as a fair sample of what the entire roadway should be along the beach—protected, as this is, by the seawall.

STREET TALK

Considering the heavy rains we have been having lately, do you have any suggestions on how drainage might be improved?

"They need to clean the ditches out. My lot looks like a lake. They haven't cleaned them in years. They could dig them deeper, too."

Lea Trice Rasmussen
BaySide Park

"Well, where I live, back by Cedar Point, they recently cleaned all our ditches out and it has really helped. Dunbar flooded quite a bit before, but since they cleaned them, there is no water on Dunbar, as far as I know."

Priscilla Copous
Bay St. Louis

"I would think if they would make the ditches a little wider and clean them out it would help. They also need to clean the trash people put into the culverts."

Carolyn Williams
Bay St. Louis

"Get a new supervisor. I live in BaySide Park and the ditches are so full of water, it covers the road. They don't take care of the ditches like they should."

Toni Jacobs
BaySide Park

"Where I live we have no drainage, period. The superintendent of roads was back there this morning. They have been building up the roads slightly."

That's about all they can do."

James Nelson
Shoreline Park

"A pumping station. If it would help to get the water out of my yard, I would be willing to pay the taxes for it."

Sal Smith
Lakeshore

"Where we live the problem is the ditches. They need to dig them deeper."

Linda Graham
Clermont Harbor

"I really don't have an answer. That's a hard question. For one thing, we need more pumps and some sort of drain-off."

dreds and hundreds a day. They would rather turn themselves in than fight."

Williams said his time in the Middle East was very stressful. There were more things to do than time to do them. "There wasn't a lot of division of duties. You'd just do whatever needed to be done."

Another stress for the soldiers was separation — not from family, but from their leaders. Williams said he tried not to think about being away from friends and relatives, but the separation from his commanders sometimes lasted for days.

He said the roughest part of fighting there was "to see a friend hurt and have to keep going."

Williams also did not receive a large welcome when he returned to the U.S. "They were going to have one for me, but I got back the day before I was supposed to."

Williams, who is single and plans to re-enlist when his time is up in three years, may have to go overseas again soon — but not back to Saudi Arabia. He said his next station may be in Germany. For now, though, he is "ready to go back to Texas."

Michael E. Wilkins, 37, of 805 Dunbar Ave., was arrested around 3:42 a.m. April 26 by Bay St. Louis Police and charged for malicious mischief for painting this and other graffiti, according to Police Chief Robert Lee. Lee said Wilkins was caught "whitehanded" — with paint on his hands — when officers questioned him about the incident. Wilkins later admitted to painting the graffiti, which started at St. Francis Street and followed Union Street into the nearby housing projects, according to the report. Wilkins was released on $500 bond, Lee added. (Photo by Thomas H. (Doc) Toups)

A public affairs spokesperson at the Stennis Space Center for NASA said, "Director of Center Operations Jack Rogers has received no letter of intent."

According to the NASA representative "Rogers is waiting, meanwhile things are proceeding as planned."

The office of general council at NASA headquarters in Washington, D.C. reported Wednesday that "we have not received such a letter."

Snelling said following the 60 days, suit will be filed and then they go into discovery. Discovery is when both sides present documentation and answer written questions. From there, it goes into pre-trial discussions.

Snelling reported that a letter of intent was sent to the offices of Vice Admiral Truly, the Federal Administration of Environmental Protection Agency, the Regional Administration of Environmental Protection Agency, the Corps of Engineers, the Attorney General of the United States, and the executive director of the Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality.

NASA has begun to clear the testing site at Stennis. As of January, all environmental quality permits were obtained from the State of Mississippi, giving NASA the go-ahead.

features in addition to the increased number of stations. "The new facility will have a larger patient waiting room. That's been one of the most needed things," Doster commented.

Harold B. Armstrong, director of the state health department's planning and resource development office, said the new facility will cover approximately 8,700 square feet. He commented of the facility at HMC, "It's a very high-quality service, but the service has grown over the years. This new facility will enable the staff to better serve the same patients, and to accommodate others."

Armstrong said there were no challenges to the CON's approval.

don't end up under water. If they do, we may have to disconnect some lines."

He reported that lightning caused some damage last week, especially when it knocked out power in Bay St. Louis and parts of Waveland for 45 minutes April 25. Another outage occurred Monday in Waveland at about 8:30 p.m. when lightning hit a transformer and caused power loss for about an hour.

Platz said trees blown over by the winds also damaged a few power lines, but the lines were repaired quickly.

Bay St. Louis Utilities Department representative Janet Aime said the city work crews' major concern has been to keep the sewerage ditches open and flowing.

"We've been weathering the storm with no major catastrophes. But that's all to the credit of those guys out there working in that weather," she stated.

Waveland Sewage Department spokesman Mike Bounds said crews have put 24-horsepower pumps in place to relieve lift stations overworked by the excess rainfall, but other than that, "we're not doing too badly."

Tim Ryan of South Central Bell said the company has done very well so far. "We have had no major outages, no entire subdivisions going out or anything like that. We have had an increased amount of service repair calls throughout the district, and our people have done a tremendous job at responding to those calls and making sure the customer is satisfied."

Randy Castello of Mississippi Power Company said the company's service crews were working to repair damages from downed tree limbs that fell onto and pulled down power lines.

"Overall, we've fared rather well," he said. "We build our lines to last forever, we hope that nothing will damage them. We know, however, that lines will sometimes be damaged, and when they fail it is usually in the middle of a storm, with lightning and rain — the worst possible time to repair them."

He commended the service crews for their work and for their quick restoration of the Necaise Street station April 25 when it was hit by lightning.

"A few years ago, something like that would have taken two or three hours to restore. Last week, it took only 47 minutes. We're very proud of that."

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

I sometimes wonder whether any other variety of onion has ever pleased my taste buds more than those sweet, tame Vidalia onions from Georgia. Some onion lovers even like to eat them out of hand, just as they would an apple; but I prefer them as a salad, or lightly sauteed or baked or marinated.

Harvested at this season in and around the town of Vidalia, Ga., Vidalia onions have earned nationwide, even international recognition; and savvy cooks hurry to the stores or produce stands to buy these flat-topped onions with their round bases. Many onion farmers in Georgia also enjoy a sizeable mail-order business, shipping their onions all over the country and other parts of the world as well.

The onion derives its sweetness and mildness of flavor from the soil of the little town of Vidalia and surrounding counties, a sweetness which experts say is related to the low-sulfur content of the soil. The Vidalia's official status is even attested by a judge's ruling some years ago that a true Vidalia onion is only one grown within 30 air miles of the town of Vidalia! (This ruling ended a battle between four Georgia counties over which had raised the original, true Vidalia. A delicious way to enjoy these sweet onions is:

VIDALIA ONIONS EN PAPILOTE
Instead of the old "en papillote" French way, using parchment paper, the onions are baked in foil. For each individual serving, peel and core the onion as you would an apple. Dust with pepper and a bit of salt, and insert a bouillon cube or granules and a pat of butter in the center.

Wrap each in a large square of heavy-duty aluminum foil and bake in a 400-degree oven for an hour (an hour and a half if onions are larger.)

These onions are tasty with baked ham or beef. I also like to serve:

CREAMED PEAS AND MUSHROOMS IN ONION CUPS
12 medium-sized onions
6 cups boiling water
2 tsp. salt
3 Tbsp. butter
2 Tbsp. flour
Dash of pepper
1 cup milk
1 1/2 cups canned petit pois
1/2 cup sliced sauteed mushrooms (may use canned)
Peel the onions and cook, uncovered, in boiling water to which you've added 1 1/2 tsp.

salt, for half an hour or till almost tender. Drain, and scoop out centers with a sharp paring knife to form cups. Place in baking dish with 2 tablespoons of butter, melted. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) for 30 minutes, or till lightly browned, basting frequently with melted butter.

Meanwhile, melt the remaining tablespoon of butter in a saucepan, and blend in the flour and the remaining salt and pepper. Stir in the milk slowly, and cook for approximately two minutes, stirring constantly. Add the peas and mushrooms and heat thoroughly.

To serve, fill the onion cups with the creamed peas and mushrooms.

And, one of the best ways to enjoy Vidalia onions is:
ONION SALAD
2 onions, sliced into thin rings
1 or 2 green onions, chopped
3 Tbsp. olive oil
1 Tbsp. vinegar
Pepper, salt to taste
Mix together in a bowl the onions and green onions, add the oil, vinegar, and salt and pepper to taste. Toss thoroughly. I like to add a spoon or so of this over my red beans and rice! (Copyright, 1991, Katharine D. M. Caire)

Lasagna goes South-of-the-Border

The month of May embraces several very special events. One is Cinco de Mayo, a Mexican national holiday commemorating the defeat of the French at the Battle of Puebla in 1867.

May also marks National Egg Month, a time set aside to celebrate the benefits eggs offer to consumers.

So... crack open the eggs and throw a fiesta! Mexican Lasagna is a zesty dish appropriate for such an event. Large flour tortillas separate colorful layers of South-of-the-Border ingredients, including refried beans, cheeses, tangy salsa and shredded zucchini. The surprise in the middle is a piquant seasoned frittata!

You prepare the unfolded omelet in a skillet (non-stick works best) and slip it into the middle of the stack. After a short baking time, this out-of-the-ordinary dish is ready to be cut into wedges for serving.

Mexican Lasagna offers a wonderful example of the versatility of eggs in cooking.

MEXICAN LASAGNA
6 to 8 servings

6 eggs
2 tablespoons water
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
1/4 teaspoon ground cumin
1 tablespoon butter
5 large (10-inch) flour tortillas, divided
1 can (15 oz.) refried beans with green chilies, divided
2 cups (8 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese, divided
1/2 cup low-fat ricotta cheese
1 jar (12 oz.) salsa, divided
1 cup shredded zucchini
Cilantro sprigs, optional
In a medium bowl, beat eggs, water, chili powder, cumin, and butter well. Blend in 10-inch skillet over medium heat and butter. Pour in refried beans, salsa, and zucchini. Cook about 7 minutes. Occasionally lift edges with spatula to let uncooked egg mixture reach bottom of pan.) Set frittata aside.

Place one tortilla in the bottom of a well-greased 9 or 10-inch springform pan. Spread with 1/2 of the beans and 1 cup of the Cheddar cheese.

Top with another tortilla, the reserved egg frittata and another 1/2 cup of the salsa.

Top with another tortilla, the remaining beans, zucchini and 1/2 cup of the Cheddar cheese. Top with the remaining tortilla.

Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 20 minutes. Remove from oven and top with remaining salsa and Cheddar cheese. Bake an additional 10 minutes.

Let stand 5 to 10 minutes before removing rim of pan and cutting into wedges to serve. Garnish with cilantro sprigs, if desired.

BACK TO NATURE

By Lydia Schultz

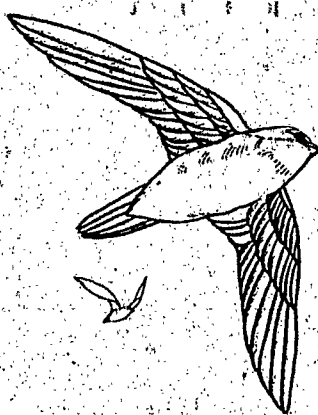

Inclement weather bad for birds, good for back yard bird watchers

Special to the Echo
By LYDIA SCHULTZ

With the rain we've had lately, a bird lover cannot help but think about its effects on the avian of the area. What happens to birds when it rains? Does it stress them? You bet it does.

If the rain lasts for days on end as it seems to have been lately, the stress is greater. Nesting birds also have special problems with which to contend.

Think about Purple Martins, Chimney Swifts and Barn Swallows. By day they stay in the air, feeding as they fly. If it's been raining for a couple days, that diminishes the time that they can feed. Once several days have passed, they are in trouble for food.

The same applies to the night flying feeders: the Chuck-will's-widow, our area bats, and the Common Nighthawks.

Shorebirds also have problems feeding during our lengthy stormy weather. The waters are rough, too rough for overhead searches for fish to feed upon. This includes the various terns in our area, the gulls, skimmers, pelicans, etc.

These are things that escape us as we sit in our warm cozy homes with the pantries and cabinets filled to the brim with anything our hearts desire.

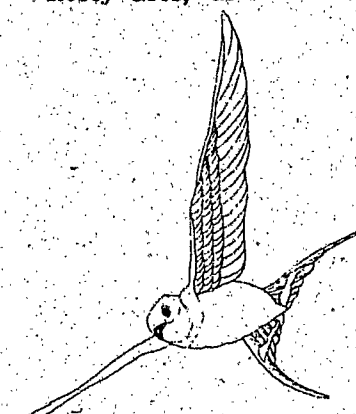

It's a tough life out there. Fortunately during our recent cloudy, dreary weeks, there have been enough breaks in the weather to allow feeding time for many of the birds, although the choppy waters on shore have not made for great feeding frenzies for the shorebirds.

Even at the feeders where the food comes easy to our regular backyard visitors, things can get tough. The food gets wet and can go bad faster. I have to put a little less than normal out, even though the same number of birds show up. Heck! The other day, it rained so hard that most of the food I put on the ground washed away!

Large numbers of Rose-breasted Grosbeaks have been reported at feeders. The male is most handsome. He has a black hood and black back with white wing bars, a white belly and the prettiest rose breast.

The female is marked brown and white, resembling the female Purple Finch that we see so often in the winter, only much bigger. "Rosey Gros," as birders call him, is in the same family as our Cardinals. You can tell by the thick bill and its penchant for black-oil sunflower seeds. This is one of those birds that you'll have a hard time attracting without sunflower seeds.

We get to see these Grosbeaks during spring north-bound migration from South America and during fall South-bound migration back to that country.

When bad weather prevails upon these birds, they'll dally and delay their journey to their breeding area in the Northeastern U.S. and Canada. A special bird for us to enjoy.

Also this past week I've had numerous reports of some Indigo Buntings and Blue Grosbeaks. I must tell you though that there seem to be fewer and fewer birds each year.

If ever there has been and indication for us to jump on the environmental bandwagon, it's now. The Canary the miners carried into the mines to detect dangerous gases has died. We are being warned every day.

The only Painted Buntings that I've seen this migration were two females. One was at my house for a couple days and one at my shoppe feeders. They are a lovely green, inconspicuous bird.

Weather definitely affects migration. If it is clear wonderful weather with a good southerly breeze, the birds can hit land with good fat reserves; good enough to go right over us and land for a rest north of us. Not good for birders here.

If the weather is bad, that's hard on the birds but good for birders. Judy Toups sat in her yard last Thursday, just as all this recent weather started, and counted sixteen species of wood warblers and four species of thrushes! That's not bad for back yard birding!

It also made us feel a little better about the dismal numbers of birds we've seen recently.

So, keep your feeders full, your binoculars handy, and your eyes alert. Let us know if you see anything interesting.

Good birding.

Other goals were made by Ellen Felder and Katrina Nordin, bringing the final score to 9-0.

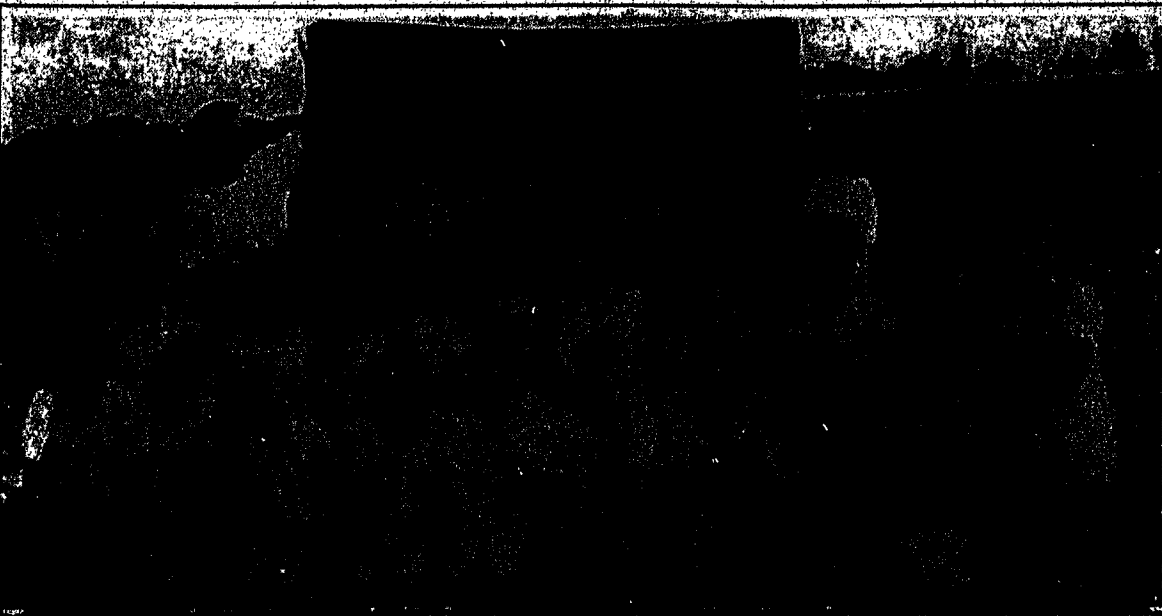

Outstanding offensive play was seen by Beth Dillenkofer, Sara Smolensky, Nicole Ray, Heidi Kerbl, Ginger Felder, Jennifer Storey and Nicole Krost.

The defensive unit was great, showing superb skills by Sharon Bradley, Marion Labat, Gwyn Krost, Erica Schwartz, Alyson Tuttle and goalies Danette Frederick and Annette Morel.

The second game in the bracket was set for afternoon play against Tupelo's number one team, but they failed to show, and the Bay Wreckers received another win through forfeit.

The third game of the tourney was against the number one Vicksburg team. This team proved tougher, defeating the Wreckers 3-2. Nicole Krost made two goals during the first five minutes of the game, but Vicksburg outscored them, 3-2.

Local karate club prepares for regional championships

Gulf Coast Shotokan Karate students, under the direction of Sensei Rannie Ladner, have been training for the 1991 Amateur Athletic Union Southern Regional Karate Championships to be held in Monroe, La.,

May 4.

In this tournament, the "non-contact" method of competition is employed. The term "non-contact" refers to the use of controlled techniques with responsible contact.

This method allows officials to best determine if all the criteria are met for scoring half a point or a full point. These criteria include good timing, distancing, power, balance and focus.

Excessive contact is grounds for a warning or disqualification.

Three areas of training have been given special emphasis for the tournament: kata, a series of coordinated movements which take about a minute or two to perform; kumite (fighting), which is defensive and focuses control on fundamental training of strong, effective techniques; and training of the spirit and self-control, to develop the better features of human character.

After competing in the regional championships last year, five students from Gulf Coast Shotokan Karate of Waveland qualified for the national championships.

The Southern Regional Karate Championship is a qualifier for the national championships, which will be held in Orlando, Fla., in July and qualifies for the Junior Olympic Games in Tallahassee, Fla., in August.

Local sponsors supporting the Waveland karate club include Anthony's Men's Wear, The Toy Train Shop, Halcyon House, Charters Antiques, Yesterday's Treasures, Weaver's Frame Studio, Dixie Glass in Waveland, George Bryant, B&G Auto and Coast Delta Realty.

Karate students who will compete Saturday at Northeast Louisiana University in Monroe, are, front row from left, Ray Torrence, Neil Horton, Travis Baum and Brandon Weaver; back row, Harold Martin, Ronald Storey, Sensei Rannie Ladner, Stephen Martinovich and Kathryn Horton. made up of the following team members:

Ninth graders Jeff Hopgood, Keith Corr, Jamie Pate, Charles Hawkins, Sam Shepard and Dwayne Antoine; and

Eighth graders Xavier Lewis, Leroy Hawkins, Lydell Haynes, Ronald Lewis, Robert Vonture and Steve Scharp.

Hopgood, Corr and Antoine also participated in the Division 16 meet.

Both squads are coached by Rocky Gaudin.

"Both squads worked very hard this season and participated in a total of 11 different meets," said Gaudin.

"We started practicing the first of February in anticipation of this season and it really paid off."

"I told them in the beginning the track program, just like the football program here at Bay High, has the potential to be a consistent major winner."

"The key to it, though, is that you have to have pride, be organized and determined, and work hard at what you do."

"The athletes here are starting to accept and understand this concept now and it will start showing up where it counts, success on the field."

two goals in the second quarter and one in the third.

The semi-finals were held Sunday at noon, and the Bay Wreckers faced the number two Vicksburg team, defeating them 2-1. During the game Nicole Krost sustained a broken wrist, but the team rallied to defeat their opponent, with goals made by Lindy Heitzmann and Suzanne Reid.

This win placed the team in the finals for state championship against the number one Vicksburg team again, who defeated them for the number one title.

"All members of my team played outstanding soccer," said Sharon Reid, coach, "and we are proud to be named the number two soccer team in the under-14 girls in the state. I am pleased with the way the girls played, every one of them. They all showed good sportsmanship and determination."

The entire team, including coaches Sharon Reid and Mike Perniciaro, received second place medals in the closing ceremony of the tournament.

The BAYS Wreckers were sponsored during the season by Mike Perniciaro Wrecker Service.

Diamondhead Water and Sewer District
NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
September 30, 1990

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

(a) The Diamondhead Water and Sewer District (the District) is a governmental entity formed by act of the Mississippi Legislature. All powers of the District are vested in the Board of Commissioners. The Board has identified no component units using the criteria established by the Governmental Standards Board. These financial statements have been presented in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) relative to governmental entities. The District has been identified as an "enterprise fund" as described by GAAP for governmental entities. Enterprise funds utilize accounting principles in a manner similar to private business enterprises. Accordingly, accounting records are maintained and the financial statements are presented on the accrual basis of accounting. The accrual basis of accounting recognizes revenue when earned and expenses when incurred.

(b) All accounts receivable have been determined to be collectible, thus there is no corresponding allowance for uncollectible accounts.

(c) Property, plant and equipment is stated at historical cost and depreciation of these assets is computed on the straight-line method over their estimated lives. All infrastructure assets are recorded and included in the balance sheet under property, plant and equipment.

The estimated useful lives for the major classes of fixed assets are as follows:

Plant structures	5 - 50 years
Equipment	5 - 10 years
Vehicles	5 years

(d) Deferred charges represents unamortized bond issue costs of $17,134 and unamortized loan cost of $37,572. The bond issue costs are being amortized over the life of the original bond issue on the straight-line basis. The loan costs are related to the process of applying for a State Revolving Fund loan to finance the new treatment plant and will be amortized over the life of the loan in future periods.

(e) Inventory consists primarily of repair parts and supplies and is reflected in these financial statements at estimated market value.

(f) The District purchased the existing collection system and package plants in April 1990. The existing assets as well as the preconstruction costs related to the new treatment plant have been capitalized and will be depreciated over the useful life of the assets using the straight-line method.

the 1990 are Special obligations of the Diamondhead Water and Sewer District, payable both as to principal and interest solely from and are secured by a lien on a pledge of the net revenues, as collected, to be derived from operation of the District's sewer system. 701a bonds, which are the initial bonds to be issued by the District, do not constitute a general obligation of the District and are not payable from funds raised or to be raised by taxation and are to be paid from the net revenues of the sewer system.

The bonds were issued in fully registered form, in denominations of $5,000. Interest, at 7.75% per annum, is payable on May 1 and November 1 each year commencing on November 1, 1990. Principal payments are due each May 1 commencing on May 1, 1991.

Going...going...gone!

Exchange Club of Hancock County's annual 'Fun Rais'n' auction is Friday

BY JANET MCQUEEN

Some 300 items, ranging from practical to exquisite to whimsical, are ready for auction by the Exchange Club of Hancock County tomorrow night at 6:30 at the Hancock County Civic Center.

Proceeds from the second annual event are targeted for the club's ongoing efforts in the prevention of child abuse. The Exchange Club sponsors The Family Child Center, a Harrison County shelter for victims of abuse coastwide.

Col. Bob Glover will oversee the non-stop "absolute auction," meaning every item will go before the night draws to a close, according to chairman Jeannie Deen.

If you have always wanted an autographed photo of Robert Redford, or a "Wheel of Fortune" baseball cap autographed by Pat Sajak and Vanna White, this is the place for you.

Other autographed photos of Jay Leno, Ed McMahon and Joan Lunden and a baseball cap autographed by Charlie Gibson of Good Morning America will go to the highest bidder.

Deen and Exchange Club member Jim Henrie complimented the generosity of local merchants, who provided the bulk of the more than 200 items and 50 restaurant meals and professional services for auction.

"My greatest rejection letter came from Buckingham Palace," said Henrie. "Spokesman Alexandra Lloyd expressed regret at being unable to donate anything to the auction, but wished us all kinds of success. It was so sincere and infinitely polite. I don't think I would have felt as good if they had sent us something."

Other auction items include original paintings by Jeanne Warner, Jean Hammett, Andrea Loiacano and William Reinhardt Sr. Two tickets to both L. A. Cruise and Southern Elegance cruise lines and a two night stay in Las Vegas will be offered.

"We have a better quality of merchandise this year," said Deen. "There are several pieces of nice jewelry and antique items."

There is no admission charge for the auction. A preview of items begins at 6:30 with the auction beginning at 7 p.m. Free drawings will be featured every 15-30 minutes. Food and beverages will be served.

For additional information, call Deen at 467-9296 or Henrie at 467-9045.

ANOTHER SATISFIED CUSTOMER FROM LONG BEACH, MS

Patricia H. Reeves is shown accepting delivery of her 1990 Chevy Lumina from Gerry-Lane salesperson Fay Walker. "I bought at Gerry-Lane because I was very satisfied with the salespersons here. They did everything that they could have to make my payments at the price I needed them. They were honest, amiable, and very good to deal with."

Chronic Fatigue Syndrome or Fibrositis?

Nearly everyone has heard something about the Chronic Fatigue Syndrome (CFS). It seems to be in the news all the time, and the news doesn't always seem good.

Basically the syndrome is, as the name implies, marked by a profound sense of tiredness. Not only after a day of work, but even in the morning. In fact, the sensation of fatigue may be so overwhelming that going to work at all may become nearly impossible.

There are a number of other symptoms that are common, such as low-grade fevers, swollen lymph glands, muscle aches or weakness and of course, joint pain. Sleep problems are also frequent.

There are a lot of theories about what causes this problem. Several address the possibility of chronic infections such as Epstein-Barr Virus (EBV) or Cytomegalovirus (CMV) playing a role. While these are only theoretical explanations, they have attracted a lot of attention in the media. Unfortunately, and here's where the news isn't always good, there is no real treatment for these viruses.

Fibrositis or Fibromyalgia is a very common syndrome treated very frequently by rheumatologists. Patients are often referred to the rheumatologist after the initial evaluation fails to find an explanation for the patients' complaints. These complaints are almost identical to those of CFS patients, leading many experts to believe that they may be the same disease. Fortunately, there are good treatments available for Fibromyalgia and many patients report cures!

If you or someone you know is suffering with these problems, we may be able to help. Ask your family doctor for a referral or call our office for an appointment.
